

2022 OVPDEMA Study Abroad Program to Mexico

Program Sites: Mexico City and Puebla

Instructors: Dr. Javier Leon, Dr. Cesar Felix-Brasdefer

Mandatory Pre-travel Class: March 25, April 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29, 2022 (3:00 – 5:00 pm)

Travel Dates: May 15 – May 27, 2022

Program Cost: $1,450 – selected students in OVPDEMA academic scholarship program.

Program fee includes:

- 3 IU credit hours
- Airfare
- Breakfast, lunch, and dinner in Mexico
- Accommodation in Mexico
- Ground transportation in Mexico
- Attractions and site visits, excursions, workshops, and lectures

Not included: passport, vaccine, and other travel associated expense

Info Session
Registration

Application Deadline: Sunday, February 13, 2022

Information Session: Friday, January 28, 2022, 1:00-2:00 p.m. Zoom

Course Description: The Latin American Experience: Cultural Diversity and Intangible Heritage in Mexico

The Mexico Study Abroad Program introduces students to history and diversity of Mexican communities and the complex relationship that they historically had/have, race politics and debates over national belonging and concert of cultural heritage. Students will also explore the benefits and challenges associated with the recent promotion of cultural heritage and diversity by NGOs, grassroots organizations, the government, and international cultural policy entities as a potential engine for economic development. The trip includes visits to historical and cultural sites, academic institutions, NGOs, and interactions with local musicians, dancers, artisans, and craftspeople. Students will focus on the causes and effects of cultural policies and its role in simultaneously contesting and reinforcing social perceptions and attitudes regarding race, social class, and gender in Mexico. In general, students benefit from the program in the following areas: intellectual and academic growth, career enhancement, personal growth, development of cross-cultural skills, and acquisition of new perspectives on world affairs, and by developing an awareness of the culture in the US and in other countries.

Eligibility:

- IUB undergraduate students
- Students must be in one of the following programs: Hudson and Holland Scholars Program (HHSP), Groups Scholars Program, IU Bloomington 21st Century Scholars Program, mentors of the Faculty and Staff for Student Excellence (FASE) Mentoring Program
- At least 18 years old
- Have a minimum IU CUM GPA of 2.7

Course Requirements: Students must apply and be accepted. Students must have or obtain a valid passport.

A non-refundable deposit of $500 is due March 11, 2022 (applicable to the total course cost).

Course Credit: 3 credits (LTAM-L210)

Additional Course Information: demaschl@indiana.edu

Application form: <http://go.iu.edu/2022MexicoApplication>

Program Website

